PRESIDENT’S REPORT

New York City is amazing. If it does not have everything, it certainly has something for everyone: from the swank boutiques on the Upper East Side to the specialty shops in the Villages; from the world-renowned museums on Fifth Avenue to the art galleries in Soho; from noisy, busy streetscapes to quiet, tree-lined walks in Central Park. Similarly, the Centennial Celebration has tried to plan something for everyone. Much has been added to the program since the last February Newsletter report.

On Thursday morning an impressive assortment of small, behind-the-scenes tours is being offered to those who apply early. Twelve prominent New York institutions are generously offering more than 30 specially arranged tours. There will be many special treats, such as viewing Maggy Rosner’s collection of fine bindings at the New York Public Library. A complete list with descriptions of the institutions, their collections, and the tours they are offering is in the Information Packet in this issue. Do read this information carefully! It will be difficult to choose. Only one tour per person will be assigned on a “first come, first served” basis. A map of the city with the locations pinpointed and the subway directions spelled out is also included in the Packet to help those who are unfamiliar with New York make their plans. It is a big city, but getting around—by bus, taxi, and foot as well as by subway—is half the fun.

On Thursday afternoon the New York Academy of Medicine will be open for Registration. The vendors will be there, and the Guild’s exhibition of memorabilia will be on view. In addition, another wonderful attraction has been added: a special exhibition, “An American Binder Collects.” The Levene family has generously offered to show the truly extraordinary collection of 20th century bindings that Hope Weil assembled during her lifetime. Hope Weil was an active and loyal member of the Guild who did much to promote the field. As a binder herself, she collected fine examples of many American binders as well as choice examples of many European binders. Allow time to enjoy both this and the GBW exhibition.

Meanwhile, a star attraction of the Centennial Celebration will be held Thursday afternoon: the Tea Reception at the Grolier Club to view the Guild’s 100th Anniversary Exhibition, half of which will be the curated Retrospective Exhibition of earlier 20th century work, and half the juried Contemporary Exhibition of current work. The limited space at the Grolier Club requires staggered Tea Reception hours, and time slots will therefore be pre-assigned. Please respect them. Later that evening both the Center for Book Arts, and the Butler Library at Columbia University are offering Open Houses. Columbia is also offering a talk by Maria Fredericks at 6PM preceding the Open House.

Thursday will be a day of choices, from the tours in the morning to the activities at NYAM and the Tea Reception at the Grolier Club in the afternoon to the Open Houses in the evening. Do read the Information Packet thoroughly before making any plans and filling out the Registration Application form. The information of course will be on the Guild’s website as well. Those who are already in the city might choose an early morning tour, a noon visit to the NYAM to pick up their registration packets, visit the vendors, and see the Weil and GBW exhibitions, then an early time slot for the Tea Reception at the Grolier Club, to be followed by a trip to Columbia for the talk and Open House. Those who arrive only that morning might choose a later tour, a later time slot for the Tea Reception, and then a visit to the Center for Book Arts’ Open House, leaving registration at NYAM for the following morning. Whatever the individual choices and assignments, Thursday is certain to be a full day.

On Friday and Saturday the Symposium on “The Art of the Book in America, 1906-2006” will be at NYAM. Registration and coffee will be available from 8:00–9:00AM. A buffet lunch and both the morning and afternoon coffee breaks will take place there as well. The program will begin promptly at 9AM with introductory remarks. Friday’s outstanding list of invited speakers has several excellent additions. For those who are unfamiliar with these speakers, the Information Packet gives brief introductory information. The morning program includes Sam Ellenport speaking on The Club Bindery and its successor the Rowfant Bindery; Sue Allen on 19th century American book covers; Cathy Baker on the Roycrofters, Dard Hunter, and modern hand papermakers; Barbara Kretzmann on the first 50 years of the Guild; and Don Etherington on the rise of book conservation. The afternoon program features Sidney Berger speaking on decorated papers; Nancy Leavitt on calligraphy in the US; Martin Antonetti on the history of printing; Richard Minsky, Hedi Kyle, and Keith Smith on artists’ books; and Deborah Evetts on modern American fine binding. Friday will be another full day. At the end of the afternoon, the Guild will hold a brief Annual General Meeting. The evening has been left unplanned, as many of the major museums are open until 9PM.

The Saturday program will again start with coffee from 8:00–9:00AM, with lunch and breaks planned as the day before. The program will consist of the Regional Reports and Presentations, starting on the East Coast and proceeding westward. Their abstracts are given in some detail in the Information Packet and include many intriguing names, institutions, and places. The morning program will start with Quebec and the New England area, and then covers the New York area and Pennsylvania. The afternoon program begins with Washington and the Midwest area and then moves to the Rocky Mountain area and Texas, finishing with the West Coast. Late that afternoon, Priscilla Juvelis will give a wind-up talk on collecting American book art. Then at 5:30PM the entire group will be bused down to the Chelsea Pier on 23rd Street to sail for a dinner cruise and a grand Centennial Celebration on board The Spirit of New York. On returning, shuttle buses to the subway and taxis will be available.

All of these plans are covered in more detail in the Information Packet in the center of this April Newsletter. As this Centennial Celebration conference and Symposium is substantially different from the usual Standards of Excellence Seminar, there are a few specific changes to mention. In regard to plane transportation, no conference airline is planned, as cheaper fares usually can be found on the Internet. Remember that there are three airports serving NYC—LaGuardia, JFK, and Newark—and check competing fares. LaGuardia is generally the closest. For train and bus transportation, New York City has good service by both. Traveling into the city by car is difficult, as parking is very limited, inconvenient, and expensive. In regard to housing and accommodation, check the GBW website for the Accommodations List put together by the local arrangements committee. Make tentative arrangements as soon as possible; they can always be cancelled. Do note the special GBW web address set up for the Centennial to help find all of this information: http://gbw100nyc.tripod.com.

The Centennial Advisory Committee and the Local Arrangements Committee have worked hard in recent weeks to put the final touches on the Centennial Celebration program, trying to offer something for everyone. All the stops have been pulled out. The enthusiasm and cooperation of everyone involved have been wonderful. Do plan to join us. Send in the Registration Application as soon as possible. Registration will begin on May 1st and close on September 12th, a month before the conference begins. With the tour assignments on a “first come, first served” basis, early application is advisable. We expect a good crowd, but hope to be able to accommodate everyone happily, on one tour or another. The Centennial Celebration promises to be a very special experience.

President, GBW

2006 GBW elections

Ballots for the 2006 Elections will be sent out to GBW members in May. The Nominating Committee has prepared the following slate of nominees for the offices up for election in this even-numbered year. Successful candidates will serve from 2006–2008:

President — James Reid-Cunningham
Standards — Christopher McAfee
Constance Wozny
Exhibitions — Karen Hanmer
Library — Jane Meggers
Newsletter — Jody Beenk

If you would like to nominate a candidate for any of these positions, please send the name of your nominee to the Nominating Committee Chairman, Susan Martin, by May 10. Contact: smartin@nyam.org; [p] 212.822.7363

Your nomination should also include a statement of the nominee’s willingness to serve if elected, the nominee’s brief biographical information/statement for inclusion with the ballot, and a signature of endorsement from five (5) members of GBW in good standing who support the recommendation.

The following seven books have been donated to the Guild of Book Workers Library by Eleanore Ramsey. All four books were given to Eleanore by Stella Patri. Stella Patri (1896-2000), bookbinder and paper restorer in San Francisco, was a volunteer in Florence, Italy at the time of the flood in 1966. She acquired these books during her time in Florence. Stella, GBW Honorary Member, was a member of GBW for almost 30 years.

Legato con Amore, or Bound With Love, Torriani & Co, Milan, 1952. With slipcase. (Gift to Stella from Peter Docili).

The Unesco Courier, February 1957. (With an article on p. 17 about Rome’s book Hospital).

Other recent donations include:

BookBinding Notes of Belle McMurtry Young (Donated by Ellen McCrady).

Fine Bookbindings from The National Library of Malta (Donated by David Trainer).

Don Guyont, Suminagashi, (Donated by Don Guyot).
Video Update
NEW VIDEOS NOW AVAILABLE

PORTLAND 2005

Paul Delrue: Lacunose (An Artistic Invention)
Paul Delrue demonstrates his unique approach to fine design bindings. Lacunose, meaning furrowed or pitted, evolved out of a desire to achieve a style of working with leather that allowed for a more illustrative look and feel than is possible with the more traditional approach of onlay and inlay. The technique, which can be repeated several times, calls for leather to be applied in pieces onto the binding then sanded, revealing hidden colors, shapes and textures within the skin.

Timothy Ely: The Drumleaf Binding
The drumleaf system, a compound of methods culled from a variety of structures and technical models, can be used to assemble books of one-sided folio spreads or single leaves formed into folios and then fabricated. It has served the presenter’s need to confront eccentric graphic components and images and suits his preferred working methods.

Hedi Kyle: Wunderkabinette: Architectural Book Environments
Made from thick paper and thin board these structures mock the exquisite mastery of renaissance curiosity cabinets commissioned by wealthy Europeans and contain wonders of the world in miniature. Even if our world of wonder has changed, we can still delight in creating a moveable environment with nooks and crannies to hoard treasures of a different kind bringing less precious materials into contact. The underlying structure still resembles a book more than a cabinet, yet three-dimensional curiosities, transformed objects, or self-made concoctions find ample room within the voluminous pages.

Renate Mesmer: Edelpappband (Paper Binding)
Although a relatively simple structure, the edelpappband requires careful thought about materials and procedure as well as precise execution in order to function properly. Renate Mesmer’s presentation includes a history of the structure and shows examples of this type of binding. Her demonstration covers the steps of sewing on frayed cords, spine linings, and board attachment to the text. She also shows two variations of reinforcement for the covering material: one attached at only the cap area and corners, the other all along.

Peggy Skycraft: Traditional Marbling on Paper, Cloth & Leather
Using modern materials, acclaimed marbler Peggy Skycraft demonstrates techniques for producing traditional patterns on paper, cloth and leather. The presentation covers ground pigments and cover techniques for lining cloth and protecting leather after marbling.

Further information about each of these presenters can be found in the June 2005 (No. 160) and December 2005 (No. 163) Newsletters.

The price of videos for members is $25 plus $5 s/h; the price for non-members is $40 plus $5 s/h. Maximum shipping on domestic orders is $15, so no shipping is charged after three videos. On orders of ten or more videos, a 20% discount with the higher non-member price is waived ($20/video), along with a flat shipping charge of $15. NEWS FROM THE CALIFORNIA COAST

Even out here winter makes a difference, contrary to what the rest of the country believes. Mostly, it rains, making everywhere green to the point of mossy. But up and down the coast, book work continues.

After the Portland Standards seminar, Paul Delrue and Dominic Riley ranged the California Coast bringing workshops and talks to San Francisco and Los Angeles. In San Francisco there was a Hand Bookbinders of California get-together at Judy Houghteling’s with a wonderful dinner provided by Toby Schwartzburg and his wife and a talk by Paul, a workshop at the San Francisco Center for the Book, and a Colophon Club dinner with another talk in Berkeley. Mel Kavin provided workshop space at Kater-Crafts Bindery for the Los Angeles workshop and lecture, with treats provided by Cathy Adelman.

On January 9th, a panel on “Book Repair: What To Do, What Not To Do, and Why It Takes So Long” was given by members of HBC (all GBW members, as well), at The Book Club of California in San Francisco. It turned out to be wildly successful, with audience members standing along the walls and out the door. Signa (Judy) Houghteling moderated the panel consisting of Gillian Boal, Head of Conservation at the UC Berkeley Library, Karen Zukor, paper conservator, Tom Conroy, Margaret Johnson and Sandra Good, bookbinders, restorers and repairers in private practice. They showed examples of common damage and discussed the techniques necessary to fix them. It appears there is a great desire for this kind of information among book dealers and collectors.

Further activity has included a talk by Paul Johnson, the paper and book artist, in Los Angeles on January 26th at the Otis College of Art & Design, sponsored by the Los Angeles Book Arts Center and two workshops by Mr. Johnson at the Center for the Book in San Francisco in early February.

Also, beginning on April 24, the Oviatt Library of California State University, Northridge and the California Chapter of the Guild of Book Workers announce a major exhibition of examples of historic bindings, fine bindings, book structures, and book-binding tools and equipment to be held in the Tseng Gallery of the Oviatt Library.

The exhibition will feature examples of the art and craft of bookbinding and decoration from the library’s collections since the invention of printing in the 15th century to the eve of the mechanization of binding in the 19th century. Modern bindings by California GBW members will show how this craft is still practiced today. Equipment and tools will illustrate the hand binding process.

The opening reception will take place on Thursday, April 27, at 6:00 PM and will be highlighted by a lecture by Tini Miura, speaking on the subject of “What Books Mean to Me.” Also featured will be demonstrations of bookbinding processes.

Contacts: Tony Gardner, Curator of Special Collections, Oviatt Library, California State University, Northridge, 18111 Nordhoff Street, Northridge, CA 91330-8326 (tony.gardner@csun.edu) and Robert Gohstand, President, California Chapter (robert.gohstand@csun.edu). Telephone information: 818-677-2597, 818-677-2635/2638.

In Tom Conroy’s note “The Cleveland Restoration Project of the Army Medical Library” in the February issue, the second and third sentences are direct quotations from “The Cleveland Restoration” by Max Fisch, published in the Bulletin of the Medical Library Association vol. 34 #3 (July 1946) p. 224-225.
In Memoriam

We report with regret the death of Mel Kavin, proprietor of Kater-Krafts Bookbindery in Pico Rivera, California on Thursday, March 9, 2006. Mel, age 89, died quietly at home following hospitalization due to a fall. He was a long-time member of the Guild of Book Workers, as well as most other book-related groups. We will publish a full obituary in the next issue of this Newsletter. We send our sympathies to all his family.

Membership

Many new members joined in the past two months. Welcome to all of you and a thank you to renewing members. CALL FOR ENTRIES

I have been asked by a major publisher to produce a book about collage, assemblage and altered books. If you work professionally in any of these categories, I'd love to see slides or digital images of your art and a description of techniques for possible inclusion in this book. Please send a SASE for return of slides. If you are unfamiliar with my books, you can find descriptions and photos of several titles on my web site www.dianemaurer.com. Please post this to any collage or bookarts groups to which you belong and feel free to write or phone with any questions.

APRIL 29: Dallas, TX: Six Centuries of Master Bookbinding. In Spring of 2006, Bridwell Library for the first time is devoting an exhibition entirely to highlights from its collection of master bookbindings. The exhibition focuses on the rich history of decorative binding styles, from the elaborate stamped leather and gold-tooled bindings of the Renaissance to the innovative, colorful, and textually responsive design bindings of the late twentieth century. The accompanying catalog, which illustrates and describes more than fifty master bindings, provides an introduction to the history of binding techniques and explores how this ever-changing art form serves as a mirror of society, as well. Exhibition at the Elizabeth Perkins Prothro Galleries, located at Bridwell Library, Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, 6005 Bishop Blvd., Dallas, TX 75275. For information call (214) 768-3483.
