EDGE TO EDGE DOUBLURE: MONIQUE LALLIER

Step by step procedure:

1. Cut the leather for doublure larger than needed (1 inch more head and tail side and two inches on the other side)
2. Trace a line all around the inside board at 1/8" with a bone folder
3. Cut the turn-ins in a long bevel with a flat cutter
4. Scrape the scores and sand it smooth
5. Cut a acid free white card (10) not too sized, a fraction beyond the bone folder mark
6. Sand off the edges of the card
7. Paste down with mix and fix the card. Let it dry close with a card and mylar between the text block and the cover.
8. Repeat on the other side
9. Sand down the edges of the card from the middle toward the outside of the board until it's very smooth.
10. Choose a Arches text type paper and pasted down with mix. Fix it 1/8" beyond the edges of the board. Let it dry close with card and mylar
11. Send the paper until it is perfectly smooth.
12. Prepare the leather: pare down to .5 or .6 mm thickness cut a bevel on the 3 sides
   pare down to .3 mm for the hinge on the fourth side.
13. Paste the doublure twice.
14. Fix the doublure in place, stretching out or pulling in if necessary.
15. Fix the edges of the doublure to the outer extremities of the board.
16. Repaste the hinge area and fix in place.
17. Let it dry open for 2 or 3 hrs.
18. Close the cover and repeat on the other side
19. When the other side is finish, put under weight and let it dry 24 hrs before to work on the design.

Useful addresses:

Where to have the leather pared:

Guy Bonnani or Lomelis Bros.
15 rue de Marseille 16 Spring St.
75010 Paris FRANCE Peabody MA 01960

Guy Bonnani will pare bits and pieces of leather as well as the leather to cover a book, paring just the spine and turn­­ins, following your pattern on paper. You can write to him in English.

Lomelis will split a full skin at your exact measure (thickness). You need to be specific in the thickness and they can transfer from millimeter to inches. They have a $40.00 minimum charge. The last time I sent 5 big skins and it cost me the minimum.
